

ABSTRACT

A programmable logic controller (PLC) having an audio generator operably connected to the PLC is configured to output an audio signal generated by the audio generator. A method of generating an audio tone and/or prerecorded voice includes interfacing control circuitry with a programmable logic controller and an audio generator, generating an audio signal with the audio generator, and outputting the audio signal from the programmable logic controller.